Discover Our Fascinating History

The story begins in 1817, when Baron József Brudern moved into the exquisite palace designed by architect Mihály Pollack. Inspired by the "Passage des Panoramas" in Paris, it later became Budapest's first modern shopping arcade. Over time, it evolved, taking on new roles and adapting to changing times. In the early 20th century, the Hungarian Central Savings Bank established its headquarters here, designed in Art Nouveau with Gothic and Moorish details. By the 1950s, the bank's offices were replaced by well-known Hungarian establishments, IBUSZ Travel Agency and the beloved Jégbüfé Confectionery. Since 2019, the building has been a five-star hotel as part of Hyatt's exclusive "The Unbound Collection by Hyatt" brand.
